PLAN PRIZEFIGHT PICTURE PROHIBITION

ICEMAN, BREWERY AND UNCLE SAM ARE ACTORS IN A SUIT

The actors in the latest play to be staged in the circuit court, the curtain having gone up late yesterday afternoon before Judge Robinson, are W. O. Barnhart, as the iceman, The Honolulu Brewing and Malting Co., ordinarily known as "the brewery," the United States of America, affectionately referred to as "Uncle Sam," and J. Lightfoot, attorney for the iceman.

The stage property consists mainly of ice, more ice, contracts, and a lengthy, technical and comprehensive petition by Lightfoot.

In a nutshell, it appears that Barnhart had a contract with the brewery to supply him with ice which he would in turn sell to about 2,000 people and firms, the understanding being that Barnhart could take the brewery's entire ice output when he wanted it and practically, that the brewery was not to sell ice to anybody for a less price than it was sold to Barnhart.

According to the allegations, the brewery sold ice to the United States military here for six cents less a pound than it is retailed by Barnhart. There's a pretty row over it all and Barnhart retains Lightfoot and goes to court yesterday for a restraining order, which is secured, to keep the brewery from breaking contract with Barnhart.

The brewery claims that Barnhart is behind in his payments and that therefore it can throw over the contract and refuse to deliver him any ice, but Barnhart declares that he is not financially behind on his contract; that he owed some money before the present ice contract was made and that, contrary to understanding, the brewery has been placing his payments against the old account instead of against the present ice contract.

The brewery has ten days in which to answer, and in the meanwhile the contract stands, as per restraining order of court, and Barnhart gets his fifteen tons of ice a day, or anywhere up to 27 tons a day, if he wants it and gives proper notice.

Barnhart buys ice from the brewery at $2.50 a ton and it was contracted that the brewery would not sell ice to anybody else for less than $3.50 a ton. Barnhart sells ice at retail for 25 cents per 100 pounds and it was contracted that the brewery would not sell it for less to anybody else, the brewery, under the contract, having the right to sell outside what ice was not required by Barnhart.

Now Barnhart alleges that the brewery has been selling ice to the U. S. Quartermaster's Department at 19 cents per 100 pounds, contrary to agreement with Barnhart. Petitioner asks $5,000 damages and a decree commanding respondent to specifically perform its agreements.

Under date of July 2, Barnhart wrote the brewery, saying that thereafter he would require the limit on the ice output, namely 27 tons of ice a day, insisting on a strict compliance with the terms of the contract.

The brewery's ultimatum was that the "contract is terminated as of July 7," the reason being given as "failure to pay indebtedness due on May 31."

Judge Robinson yesterday signed a restraining order and things stand as they were until the courts determine the merits of the case.

TO ARREST MEN WHOM ADVERTISER "DARED" ACCUSE

As a result of Joe de Ponte Feraz's statement to Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, warrants for the arrest of Joe Leal, ex-chief of detectives, W. Cluney, Ed. Cluney, Ed. Miller and Sam Kanela will be sworn to this afternoon, charging them with running a gambling game at the Arlington hotel on Hotel street, in room number 7.

Yesterday de Ponte waived examination in police court on a charge of embezzlement and was committed to the circuit court for trial. McDuffie had the youthful offender before him and asked him what he had done with the money that he had failed to turn in to his employers, the answer being that he had lost it at the Arlington hotel in a gambling game of craps run by Joe Leal who is at present driving an automobile.

With the evidence with which de Ponte Feraz has come forward, the police department feel that they have a good case against the men who are supposed to be running a big crap game in their spare moments.

In addition to those mentioned, a number of others are likely to be called in to testify about the game that is supposed to have been running for some time.

Joe Leal and Ed Miller are the ones alleged to be directly interested in the game which is for stakes anywhere from five cents to hundreds of dollars. De Ponte, according to his statement, lost over $50 which he had collected from clients of the Honolulu Automobile garage.

De Ponte feels very keenly his position, but blames the whole thing on invitations to shoot craps at the place alleged to be conducted by Leal and his friends.

The warrants will be served this afternoon, the chauffeurs facing the charges against them tomorrow morning in police court.

A deliberate falsification appears in the Advertiser this morning when it is stated that The Star did not dare print the facts of the gambling story. Dare is a boomerang word. It is a well-known fact in police circles that the Advertiser makes a specialty of gambling stories; that a former clever chief of detectives is a reporter for the Advertiser and that he has no friendship for Leal who also was formerly a chief of detectives. Whatever the relations may be between Chief of Detectives McDuffie and the former chiefs of detectives, whether friendly or not, McDuffie has always done his duty without persecution. Whether Leal is a gambler or not, there are many more prominent gamblers than he.

Much laughter was occasioned in legal circles today by the anxiety of the Advertiser to know "Who Is Paying Lawyer Lightfoot." On the best of authority it may be stated that Lawyer Lightfoot is being paid, as any lawyer is paid, if he is paid, by his client. The boy went to Lightfoot and a conference followed between Lightfoot and the police. Whether Lightfoot advises the boy to plead guilty is a matter between Lightfoot and the boy, though Lightfoot remarks that it might be a good idea for him to engage space in a newspaper to daily announce his retainer fees, expenses and other private business.

The best that can be done for the boy will be done. Lightfoot does not represent the alleged gamblers. What the police have to do with de Ponte's testimony against the alleged gamblers is between the police and the boy. Lightfoot's business is to represent the boy on a charge of embezzlement, not on a charge of gambling.

Up to two-thirty this afternoon, four of the thirteen alleged gamblers, who are said to have been playing the celebrated "come 7-11" game at the Arlington Hotel, had been arrested, they being Jim Harrub, Billy Aylett, Sam Kanela and J. H. Powers—Each put up a cash bail of $10.

The other nine to be arrested this afternoon are: J. De Ponte, Joe Leal, Ed. Cluney, Tony Tavares, Antonio Rodriguez, J. W. Edwards, Wm. Cluney, Ed. Miller and John Roe.

Dee's real name is unknown but his identity is known to the police.

MAYOR M'CARTY CONDEMNS SHOW FOR COAST CITY

(Associated Press Cable to The Star.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—There is every indication of a world-wide movement to prohibit the exhibition of moving pictures of the fifteen-round prize-fight at Reno, July 4, between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, in which the latter so badly punished Jeffries.

Christian Endeavor societies all over the world have taken up the matter and are agitating public opinion against any picture exhibitions of the big scrap.

Mayor McCarthy, of this city, has officially announced that he will not permit a show of the films in San Francisco, and mayors of many cities are proclaiming the fact that if there is any attempt to exhibit the pictures in their towns they will order the police to stop the shows.

LUMBER OF PAHOA PROMISES WELL

The Pahoa Lumber Mill, at Pahoa, Hawaii, has embarked into the field of building and ornamental lumber making. For a long time principal attention was given to the sawing of railroad ties, and another ship load of these ties will shortly leave Hilo for the Santa Fe Railroad.

The fancy lumber section of the business is something new, but it promises to be highly successful. A large number of big orders for this lumber have already been received by Manager Samuel Johnson.

The new directors room of C. Brewer & Company on Fort street, Honolulu, has been fitted out in this lumber from Pahoa Mill, this being the first notable local application of the lumber. The side walls and flooring are all in this wood, and it makes a very striking appearance. The wood is said to be about the most durable in the world.

"I feel greatly encouraged over the success of the lumber we are turning out," said Manager Sam Johnson last Sunday. "In every instance it has given perfect satisfaction. For beauty and lasting qualities it cannot be beaten by anything in the Hawaiian Islands or anything that can be imported. By the installation of new machinery, we are now able to fill all orders promptly."

"The Santa Fe tie contract is an old story. We are getting on with that in a very satisfactory manner. My larger hopes are now centered in the fancy lumber business, and I am confident that this lumber will soon take a place second to none in the interior finishings of new buildings in the islands."

SHERIFF RESIGNS

Several important changes are being contemplated in the police department in the near future, the most important one being the resignation of Sheriff Jarrett who will enter the employ of the Inter-Island S. S. Co. as shipping superintendent in place of the late Frank Harvey.

Deputy Rose will succeed Jarrett as sheriff, and possibly Captain Baker will have Rose's place. Chief McDuffie has been offered the place to succeed Rose, but McDuffie feels that he would prefer to remain where he is.

Jarrett was offered the position with the steamship company where he had been employed for many years immediately after the late Senator's death, but decided only this afternoon to accept.
